British Cabinet Altered

Back Bencher Health Minister

LONDON, May 7 (Reuters).—Prime Minister Churchill reshuffled his government tonight, appointing a 39-year-old back-bencher of the Conservative Party as health minister.

The new minister, responsible for administering the country's mammoth health service, is Ian MacLeod, Cambridge-educated Scot who was head of the Conservative research department till he became a member of Parliament in 1950.

The Prime Minister switched Alan Lennox-Boyd, 48, minister of state for the colonies, to the post of minister of transport vacated Tuesday following ill-health by John MacKay.

Other changes:
The Marquess of Salisbury, 58, vacates the post of Lord Privy Seal but remains commonwealth relations secretary and leader of the House of Lords.

Harry Crookshank, 59, becomes Lord Privy Seal, relinquishing the health ministry.

Henry Leonard Hopkinson, 50, now overseas trade secretary, becomes minister of state for the colonies.

Lennox-Boyd and MacLeod will not be members of the cabinet, but they will receive £4,001 a year as "ministers of cabinet rank."

Apart from filling the vacant transport job, the main purpose of the reshuffle is to ease Crookshank's work. As leader of the House of Commons he is faced with heavy tactical responsibilities.

A new overseas trade secretary is still to be chosen.

Truman Raps Receiverships

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP).—The Truman administration today raised sharp objections to a proposal to block strikes in defense industries through use of receivership for both companies and unions, backed by continuing injunctions.

At the same time chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization Board testified that new danger in such important industries as oil, iron ore and aluminum would result if the board were shorn of the power to recommend settlements in labor disputes.

The arguments were laid before two House of Representatives committees studying ways of avoiding such crises as the steel dispute.

Feinsinger testified before the labor committee in its investigation of the wage board and its handling of the steel situation. The anti-strike bill was before the armed services committee which got the administration view in a letter from Ralph Wright, assistant labor secretary. Wright wrote that his message had been cleared and committee officials said that evidently meant presidential backing.

Eyres to Run In Chilliwack

CHILLIWACK, B.C., May 7 (CP).—Leslie H. Eyres, minister of trade and industry in the Coalition, was nominated tonight to contest the Chilliwack riding for the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Eyres got the votes of 86 of 119 delegates, while Frank Wilson, Chilliwack lawyer, got 33.

Firemen to Get Labor Help To Prevent Closing of Hall

Trade unionists will work with Victoria firemen to prevent closure of Yates Street fire hall.

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) last night authorized executive members to work in co-operation with Local 730, International Association of Firefighters.

The labor council also heard warnings that other city services are either being cut or will be cut soon.

The city council move to close the hall also was called "vindictive."

It was pointed out that the firemen followed the usual procedure in negotiations and got a pretty fair award.

"Firefighters would have had to live up to it if it had been adverse," said John Staton, vice-president for the Sixth District, International Association of Firefighters.

DOUBLE TIME

"As an outsider, the action is nothing but a vindictive move by the city to get back at firemen over a successful arbitration board," he said.

"If the station is closed, it will take approximately double the time to reach a fire in the area affected by closure," he told the meeting.

It's serious to throw men out of work but more serious to lose fire protection, he added.

Harry Foster, secretary of the B.C. Professional Firefighters, told the meeting that the association constitution includes a no-strike clause.

"Victoria is the second city in B.C. but fifth in wages paid to firemen. We have had adverse awards but firemen have not cringed," he added.

SO VULNERABLE
He said he didn't know of any city so vulnerable—especially in the dockyard area—to enemy action. All other cities are trying to recruit auxiliary forces, he said.

"Fire Chief Frank Brier is a man of outstanding ability. The city council should listen to him."

Mr. Foster challenged the council "not to allow Victoria to circumvent the award. It's a thin edge of the wedge to set a precedent of breaking the award."

Labor council secretary Percy Raymond described as "an excuse for stalling" the current city action on studying the legal meaning of the word "conciliation" in the Municipal Act as it refers to firemen's negotiations.

The city is attempting to find out whether the award can be appealed.

Joseph Barwell, of the city police union, said the award to firemen means the same to policemen. He sought and received support of the labor council for any police union action to prevent cutting of the force.

WITH APPREHENSION

A Boilermakers' Union delegate said the trade union organization "should view with apprehension city council action to close the Yates Street hall."

A civic outside worker delegate to the council said more than 80 men have been laid off since the first of the year. Garbage disposal will be slow, boulevards won't be watered and street cleaning may be cut, he warned.

It was suggested that it be determined how many aldermen live outside city limits. "They can call other fire departments," the delegate added.

Re-striking of the city mill rate to allow for services also was advocated, as was amalgamation of Greater Victoria fire departments.

An inside staff worker, also a delegate to the council, stated that at least four inside workers have been laid off recently. Such cess of the firemen will have an effect on the status of inside workers and perhaps result in retention of staff through re-striking the mill rate, he said.

Cattle Admission Plea Wins Bowman Approval

British Columbia Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman yesterday agreed to a federal government request that cattle from Calgary, Alberta, stockyards be allowed into the province.

Mr. Bowman said he stipulated that the cattle be inspected for foot-and-mouth disease, and that proper disinfectants be used in the yards at Calgary.

Stockmen there had complained that congestion and trading paralysis followed a B.C. regulation that only cattle from Dominion-approved feedlots would be admitted.

Meanwhile, federal animal health branch investigators said they had been busy in various parts of B.C. fumigating and inspecting personal belongings of European immigrants.

It was reported from Alberni that a federal official had fumigated the baggage of an immigrant whose effects had not been treated, and Vancouver customs officials say a veterinarian will go to a farm at Duncan to treat similarly an immigrant farm worker's baggage.

Gardiner Asks End Of Probe

OTTAWA, May 7 (CP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today Canada's economic difficulties may deteriorate further if the parliamentary probe on the government's handling of the foot-and-mouth disease is not ended soon.

The difficulties, he hinted before the Commons agricultural committee, will develop through a prolonged United States embargo on Canadian livestock.

"Unless we get the committee closed up at an early stage," he told the members, "we are going to experience such economic difficulties that anything we have experienced to date would look mild."

The difficulties would not be because of a spread of the disease in South Saskatchewan, "but because we are being shut back behind our boundary lines."

Publicity given the committee's hearings was not helping in attempts to overcome livestock marketing problems and in fighting the disease "the way it ought to be fought."

The minister's speech, charging opposition members with trying to prejudice the committee's decision on its inquiry, was made as members considered whether to end the six-day investigation or to call further witnesses.

Opposition members said additional federal veterinarians, including Dr. N. D. Christie, district veterinarian at Regina, should be called along with a private practitioner and some of the farmers whose animals had been slaughtered in the attempt to control the disease.

German Reds Preparing Anti-Aggression Army

Wisner Opposes Car Fee

VANCOUVER, May 7 (CP).—Attorney-General Gordon Wisner said tonight the government should not use automobile license fees for piling up revenue.

He told directors of the B.C. Automobile Association fees for passenger cars should be for regulation, not taxation.

The association has been waging a campaign for a straight $10 license fee on all private passenger cars. The Progressive Conservative Party has pledged to cut present fees by 30 per cent.

Mr. Wisner emphasized that he was speaking as an individual and was not authorized to state Liberal government policy.

"What I have to say is non-political," he said. "I am not here to get votes and I have no authority to say what I am going to say."

"For a long time I have thought the approach to automobile licensing has been wrong. The accent should not be on the revenue aspect. There should be a regulatory fee to carry the expense of regulation."

University Elects Duke Chancellor

LONDON, May 7 (Reuters).—The Duke of Edinburgh today was elected chancellor of Edinburgh University. He was nominated some time ago by Sir Edward Appleton, principal and vice-chancellor of the university. Today, the general council approved it.

The chancellor—whose job is mainly ceremonial—is elected for life.

The duke also is chancellor of the University of Wales and in that capacity he addressed 1,900 students today at Swansea University College.

When he reminded students of their college motto, they thundered: "Say it. Say it."

The duke raised his hand for silence and then pronounced the words: "Gweddwr 'Crefit Heb ei Daw.'" (The slogan means "Skill is a sterile thing without the gift.")

Stalin Telegraphed For "Defense Day"

BERLIN, May 7 (AP).—East Germany's Communist rulers announced tonight they are forming an army to defend the Soviet zone "against aggression."

The ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party made the announcement in a cable to Prime Minister Stalin.

The action was taken in connection with the Russian anniversary of the seventh anniversary of its liberation from the Nazis by the Soviet army. East zone Communist leaders, however, changed the name of "Liberation Day" to "Defense Day."

East Germany's president, Wilhelm Pieck, already had declared on May Day that the imminent signing of a peace contract between West Germany and the western allies and the Bonn government's proposed contribution to European defense would compel the Soviet zone to organize its own armed forces.

The telegram to Stalin pledged the East German republic would continue to work for national unity, but added that an armed force would be necessary for defense against aggression.

The party's cable described the Bonn republic's impending pact with the west as a "war treaty" which constitutes a threat to European peace.

It did not say how big an army would be organized, nor whether a draft would be instituted to fill its ranks.

The Soviet zone now has a nucleus of 50,000 trained infantrymen in its so-called people's police "alert units" and another 10,000 in the growing sea police.

The party cable followed a rash of statements earlier today from the office of East Germany's propaganda chief, Gerhard Eisler, which appeared to be paving the way for the announcement.

Eisler's office said the Soviet zone government had conducted a secret spy and sabotage trial and jailed 15 Germans for terms ranging up to life imprisonment. They were convicted of being American and French "agents" who allegedly blew up a "people's-owned" plant, wounded five workers and otherwise spread organized terror.

Eisler's office also launched a new attack on smuggling from the east zone to West Berlin and promised offer.

The Allies announced yesterday that the Reds had rejected the U.N. command's final compromise offer.

"Instead they launched into a propaganda tirade that can serve no useful purpose. I told them our position should be clear to them by now and suggested a recess until such time as they wished to resume."

Foot-Mouth Scourge Spreading in Britain

LONDON, May 7 (Reuters).—The foot-and-mouth scourge, which has stopped cattle movements in almost all of Britain, continued to spread today.

Two new outbreaks were reported, one in Central England and one in Scotland, bringing the total to 251 since the plague started last November 14. The worst epidemic in 10 years has led to the slaughter of 14,490 cattle, 7,962 sheep, 6,440 pigs and 30 goats.

Cattle shipments have been banned throughout England, Wales and a large part of Scotland. Britons, living on a stringent meat ration, are worried that the disease may cut already-small stocks of home-grown meat.

But the British Veterinary Association announced tonight that the epidemic "should not affect meat supplies unduly."

"About 60 per cent of cattle slaughtered are salvaged for meat, and some two-thirds of sheep and pigs are salvaged also," an association statement said.

The Channel Island of Jersey has been declared a restricted area. Neighboring Guernsey has banned imports of animals, poultry and feed from other channel islands.

Passengers arriving at Ireland's Dublin airport from Britain were sprayed with disinfectant before being allowed into the city.

Officials of the Royal Dublin Society spring cattle show ordered visitors not to touch any of the 1,600 animals that went on view yesterday. Auction sales, parades of cattle and milking trials were canceled.

Hanging Baskets Gather Strength

Part of Victoria's famous aerial garden, three hanging flower baskets are shown off by parks employee Les Spooner, who helped with work of assembling about 600 of them this year. Baskets will remain in the city's Beacon Hill Park nursery for about a month until flowers and plants are strong enough to be placed on their lamp standard perches. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

U.S. Oil Strike Will Continue

DENVER, May 7 (AP).—The United States oil strike will continue, O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers' International Union (O.I.O.), said today, adding that the union will attend a Wage Stabilization Board meeting May 13 as requested.

At a press conference Knight read a lengthy telegram to Nathan Feinsinger, W.S.B. chairman.

In his telegram Knight said the dispute dates back to September, 1951, and said that three times the strike has been postponed. He said the strike actually went into effect almost two months after its original effective date.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Since I am a heavy smoker, the non-smoker has always struck me as an irritating Puritan or else as a figure of fun. When the lifelong non-smoker refused a cigarette, the smug look on his face invited a blow, I thought.

grinning like a virtuous ape. If smoking hadn't destroyed my wind and stunted my growth, I would have tensed my biceps and given him something he would have liked even less—a smart rap in the teeth with a tobacco pouch.

What does the non-smoker know of life, the smoker tends to ask himself sardonically. How can he speak as a man, if he has never sneaked behind the woodshed for a forbidden puff? If he did sneak behind the woodshed, the puff probably made him sick. In view of his weakness of stomach, what right does he have to talk like a resistor of sin and dismiss as a needless pose the habit that keeps me alive?

The other kind of non-smoker is the temporary non-smoker who refuses a cigarette with an air of downright apology.

"Thanks very much," the contemptible fellow says. "I haven't smoked since last Tuesday." He smirks in a sheepish way and absent-mindedly chews on a nail while muttering something about the amount of money he has saved.

The temporary non-smoker is probably a worse pest than the permanent non-smoker. The P.N.S. makes you angry with him. The T.N.S. makes you angry with yourself as well.

Preserve me from all kinds of non-smokers, and especially those who are responsible for putting up signs that forbid other people to smoke, I always used to say.

Now I have to change my attitude, because I have become a non-smoker myself. Midnight tonight marks the end of my tenth tobaccoless day.

I used to look upon every breath drawn without tobacco as a breath wasted. I grudgingly gave the time for meals. I hated to go to the theatre, except in the United States, where smoking was allowed. I disliked riding on buses. While I smoked a pipe, I rolled a couple of cigarettes so as not to lose any time.

But the other day I simply cut it off. What brought on this strange bout of self-flagellation was "flu and loss of voice." The doctor told me not to smoke, and as I felt too sick to smoke anyway, I complied. Illness has long been the only thing that blunts my appetite for nicotine. Every time I feel under the weather I tell myself, "This time I'm really going to quit smoking."

And this time I really did. I tell you friends, I feel 100 per cent worse for it already.

My appetite has increased so much that people are already beginning to talk about the possibility of a tapeworm. I'm keeping myself poor with such unlikely foods as toast and glasses of buttermilk in mid-morning and extra hot-dogs in mid-afternoon.

Instead of smoking, I am chewing gum—an infinitely more damaging habit, and much uglier too. I suppose hashish will be the next step. The other night I dreamed of smoking, which is something I have never done before in all my life. I have developed a twitch in the eyelid.

Now I perceive that the real villains of the world are the smokers. If one more person offers me a cigarette I'll stuff it down his neck, so help me.

Use of Delegates' Names Debated by Labor Group

Press reports using names of delegates may result in discrimination to workers by employers, Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-C.I.O.) heard last night. When a man makes a statement, his name shouldn't go in the paper because it could be detrimental to his job, it was argued. Council secretary Percy Rayment said he didn't object to the idea of names but added that their use also provided a check for unions when a delegate spoke "out of line." A boiler-maker delegate added that in January he made a statement and the boss later came around. His employment was terminated during Easter week and he felt the statement had a bearing, he added. At one meeting he refused to give his name to a reporter because he felt it was not a public meeting, the delegate said. Council later passed a motion stating that in future delegates' names might be withheld if they applied directly to the press.

Nanaimo School Choir Awarded Rare Honor at Musical Festival

A school choir from Nanaimo's John Shaw High was awarded a rare honor at last night's session of the Greater Victoria Musical Festival.

The choir sang a Czechoslovak folk song and, although encores are not usually allowed in the festival, the audience insisted on hearing another song by the talented school singers.

Credit Control Eased By U.S. Government

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP).—Controls over installment buying were suspended today because the United States government decided inflationary dangers have eased off.

(Canada took similar action in removing credit controls Monday and the ruling went into effect Tuesday.)

means no government requirements as to down payments or time to pay for automobiles, furniture, radio and television sets, and scores of other items.

Many authorities said the result would be a trend toward small down payments and more time to pay. Dealers and finance companies still may impose their own terms, in the absence of government regulations.

Industry hoped for an immediate boost in sales, which have been lagging in some fields. But some officials said they thought the stimulant would be slight, and perhaps only temporary.

The federal reserve board's regulation "W" has required a one-third down payment on automobiles and 15 per cent down on most other items, with 18 months to pay.

The board said it had decided unanimously to suspend the regulation after a careful study of the economic situation.

The regulation was clamped on in September, 1950, shortly after the start of the Korean war, to curb a buying wave which was pushing up prices then.

More recently, prices have been stable and some have even declined.

The board urged Congress to extend its control powers, now due to expire June 30, so the installment buying curbs can be imposed again if needed in any new inflationary upsurge.

Lads Devise "Artillery"

SALEM, Mass., May 7 (AP).—Two slingshots which police said would hurl a five-pound rock more than 200 yards were confiscated by police last night.

Police said the 60 windows in two Salem manufacturing plants were shattered by the weapons, apparently operated by boys. The slingshots made out of a branch of a tree are two inches thick and three feet high.

Oddities

VIENNA, May 7 (AP).—The owner of a bookstore in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, advertised four Russian books in her window and almost immediately was arrested by police, the Vienna newspaper Wiener Kurier reported today.

She had written the titles on a poster in the following order: "We Want to Live," "Far From Moscow," "In the Shadows of the Sky," "Scrapers," "Under a Foreign Flag."

SALINA, Kas., May 7 (AP).—Claude W. Peters told police a prowler entered his garage and stole two fishing poles and reels valued at $20.

But that's not all—the thief also took a spade from the garage and dug for worms in Peters' back yard.

TRENTON, N.J., May 7 (AP).—There are at least four pants pressers in Trenton who think they are members of the press. The four pressers attended a baseball banquet last night and parked themselves firmly at a table marked "press."

Efforts to move them failed. They became angry when reporters tried to convince them that the table was reserved for working newspaper men.

"We're working members of the press," one of them shouted. "I press more pants than anybody else in this room."

Police Ponder Weighty Crime

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 7 (AP).—Police have on their hands the weightiest crime in local history—theft of 31,500 pounds of cement sidewalk.

The 450 blocks, each two inches thick and weighing 70 pounds, were piled out of walks in what is to be the new capital approach.

William Fallon, secretary of the commission planning that beautification project, explained the sidewalk was not to have been removed for at least two or three years. He said it must have been taken up with a truck to pry up and load the heavy load.

Pension Plan Urged Drama Official For Federal M.P.'s Will Resign

OTTAWA, May 7 (CP).—All political parties have tentatively agreed to a contributory pension plan for members of the Commons.

The plan, to provide a life pension for anyone who has served at least eight or 10 years in Parliament, will be discussed soon by Finance Minister Abbott and representatives of the political parties.

If final agreement is reached, the plan likely will be submitted for approval at this session. While it will be sponsored by the government when it is introduced, it will represent the labor of a group of private members who have worked for several years on possible pension schemes.

The program is aimed particularly at taking care of men who devote most of their life to politics and then suffer defeat when they have no business or employment to which to return.

Recently, Julian Ferguson (P.C. Since North) urged the government to increase the indemnities of members of the Commons. Members now receive $4,000 for each session of 65 days duration and $2,000 a year tax-free living allowance. In 1951, members received $10,000 because there were two sessions.

Mr. Ferguson's request was welcomed by many members, including some Liberals. However, Liberal sources said there likely will be no increase in indemnities until after the next federal election, expected by some in the fall of 1953.

Leave Centre For Canadians

OTTAWA, May 7 (CP).—Defense Minister Claxton indicated today that a recreation centre will be established in Tokyo for use of Canadian troops on leave from Korea.

He told the Commons that Brig. W. J. Lawson, adjutant-general, today had recommended establishment of such a centre in Tokyo.

"A suitable building has been found for this purpose," he said. "I shall be making the appropriate recommendation to my colleagues."

Mr. Claxton was replying to Claxton Gillis (C.C.F.-Cape Breton South), who asked if any representations had been made by service personnel or welfare organizations regarding better furlough facilities for Canadian troops on leave in Tokyo.

Luxury Liner Refloated

SYDNEY, Australia, May 7 (AP).—The 28,000-ton British luxury liner Orcades was refloated tonight from a sandbar in Port Phillip Bay, 40 miles south of Melbourne. The liner, carrying 1,215 passengers and a crew of 605, went aground at dawn.

Long Drought Harms Cattle

CANBERRA, May 7 (Reuters).—Australia is considering calling in the army to save thousands of cattle starving to death in the most severe drought ever recorded in northern Australia's history.

Cattle owners have urged that army trucks take cattle out because they are too weak for cross-country herd-driving.

Saskatchewan Election Date Set

REGINA, May 7 (CP).—Premier T. C. Douglas announced today that a Saskatchewan general election will be held Wednesday, June 11. The C.C.F. government, first elected in 1944, will seek a third term.

The Saskatchewan vote will precede by one day the general election in British Columbia. Alberta also expects an election this summer.

Nomination day will be Monday, May 26, two weeks and two days before election day. Already about 120 candidates, chosen at constituency conventions, are in the field.

Lieut. Gov. W. J. Patterson dissolved the 52-member legislature by proclamation. The standing at dissolution: C.C.F., 31; Liberals, 19; Independents, 2.

Premier Douglas said in announcing the date after a cabinet meeting that the spring election had been made possible by good progress made in seeding and spring harvesting.

An early clean-up of spring farm work will allow farmers to pay attention to the election campaign and get out to vote without jeopardizing their livelihood. The next legislature will have 53 members, one more than the old. A redistribution bill has given Regina a third seat. The boundaries of a number of other constituencies were changed and some were given new names.

The C.C.F., headed by Scottish-born "Tommy" Douglas, was catapulted to power in a 1944 wartime election. The legislature dissolved today was the 11th since Saskatchewan became a province in 1905. Until the C.C.F. came on the scene, its governments were all Liberal, with the exception of Premier J. T. M. Anderson's Conservative government from 1929 to 1934.

Only One Way Out

THE congestion created in the cattle industry by the new restrictions on movement of livestock and dressed meat re-emphasizes the seriousness of the problem that will continue to confront the Dominion until foot-and-mouth disease is stamped out and the United States market regained. To say that that may not be for a year or more is not taking too pessimistic a view of the situation, because no one knows where or when the disease may make its next appearance. Certainly events have shown little room for confidence in the effectiveness of quarantines applied months too late. Even Mr. Gardiner's earlier optimism seems to have vanished.

The 400,000 head of cattle normally moved annually into the U.S. from Canada represents a huge quantity of meat to be thrown on the domestic market. Left to itself, however, the home market should be able to absorb all or most of the increased supply—that is, if the law of supply and demand were permitted to function and Mr. Gardiner had not rushed to peg prices in his impetuous zeal to "protect" the producers. Their so-called protection is sorry comfort to them now, with the packing-houses and stockyards bulging with meat the public cannot afford to buy.

Confusion over the tightened shipping restrictions is partly responsible for the present congestion, but even when that is straightened out there is no reason to expect the Canadian market to be receptive to the excess, a surplus which will grow steadily larger as long as the export market remains closed. The consumers have shown that they are not willing to buy more meat at the high prices fixed by the government just to help the industry and Mr. Gardiner out of a jam. Yet under the support plan it is the consumers who are going to pay out of taxes for meat they cannot afford to eat. They are caught coming and going, as always when Mr. Gardiner is allowed to meddle blindfold with the normal processes of marketing.

The way out is obvious. As mentioned already, per capita consumption of meat has dropped 40 per cent since 1944, plain proof of resistance to high prices. Assuming domestic market capacity to be 40 per cent greater than it is today, it seems reasonable to suppose that all or most of the surplus could be absorbed if prices were allowed to find their own level. Any loss resulting from unloading the surplus at cut prices surely would be preferable to the chaos the government's support policy is rapidly building up for the entire industry.

It Could Mean Anything

IN some circles it seems to be taken for granted that the forthcoming liquor plebiscite is a vote for or against cocktail bars. This is not so at all. The question to be asked is as follows: "Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous liquor and wine by the glass in establishments licensed for such purposes?"

This could mean a variety of things. It could mean cocktail bars; it could mean the sale of liquor and wine with meals in hotels or restaurants; it could mean the wide-open saloon. It could mean the sale of spirits in beer parlors, or in licensed premises in addition to beer parlors.

What the government had in mind when it framed the question to be asked, no one else knows. The wording seems to have been left purposely vague. After the vote the government will name a committee to study the problem and recommend changes in the liquor act to the next legislature; but because of the lack of alternative questions the committee will in great measure proceed in blinkers, unaware of detailed public preferences.

The local option principle, it seems well to emphasize, will prevail. An over-all affirmative response to the plebiscite will not override any district which votes in the negative. No license will be granted in a riding where majority opinion dissents.

This safeguard is about the only meritorious aspect of the plebiscite. Instead of giving the public an opportunity to express itself on the various methods of liquor sale and consumption, the question to be asked could result in as much confusion of thought as exists on the subject at present.

Conscientious but Futile

THE report of what has come to be known as the University committee on the Doukhobor problem in British Columbia, with its 40 recommendations, is a conscientious piece of labor, but remarkably futile in so far as there is any likelihood of the province being able to carry out its fundamental proposals. The plain fact is that no other country so far has agreed to accept settlement by the unwanted dissidents, the Sons of Freedom, so the suggestion of their emigration does not mean much. Likewise, regular and law-abiding members of the Doukhobor colonies in the province are now mostly second or third generation Canadians, making revocation of citizenship impossible under the present laws of the country.

With other proposals in the report, however, there will be more sympathy. British Columbia long ago was advised to get the Doukhobor lands back into the hands of individual colonists. They are good farmers, industrious and successful on the land. The grave issues of schooling and faith have founded every previous attempt to settle the problem with a one-piece solution, and that is most apt to prove the case again.

The last-ditch resort of moving the Sons of Freedom to some other part of British Columbia invites the burning question—where? All attempts to apply this remedy have had to be abandoned in the past by reason of public and mutual objections. Finally, the idea of separate jails for law-breaking dissidents is neither new nor practical. Anyone who recalls what happened at Piers Island in the Gulf of Georgia will know why. First, as last, this whole issue is a matter of national responsibility.

VIEW ROYAL PLAN

Sir,—If Victoria must have a race track surely it should be made several miles beyond the already well-established residential areas, which would be ruined by proximity to an amusement park.

From all accounts, tourists come to Victoria because of its quiet charm and beauty, so different from what they find in other cities. Why destroy this unique attraction by making Victoria as noisy and restless as the hundreds of cities they can more easily visit on the Mainland?

CIVIL DEFENSE AUXILIARIES

At present time there are suggestions being made by the members of the city council to the effect that the fire department membership be reduced. This form of forced economy must also occur within other departments where auxiliary forces are in the making under the heading of civil defense. If it is in the back of the mind of any member of the city council to use the auxiliaries for any other purpose than disaster relief, then they are sadly mistaken.

You cannot recruit and organize any body of volunteer workers unless they are fully conversant with the duties attached to their office, their being solely assistance to the authorities in case of disaster. The police and fire departments must be in the position to care for their respective duties under normal conditions, and expect no help from volunteer workers within the civil defense organization unless disaster from some form or another overtakes us.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir,—The editorial of May 2 on hospital insurance overlooks an essential fact. It is important to remember that the common denominator in all hospital insurance problems is the large percentage of the population who cannot or will not pay the premiums. Almost this same percentage cannot or will not pay hospital bills. Under the present hospital insurance act, this problem has not been adequately dealt with except that the taxpayers of the province have had to pay almost $9,000,000 in direct and indirect subsidization of hospital insurance in addition to premiums. Under a voluntary hospital insurance plan, which the average citizen obviously prefers since as a citizen of a democracy he resents compulsion, there will still be a percentage of the population who cannot or will not pay hospital bills. The taxpayer, as he has done under the compulsory scheme, will in one form or another pay the hospital costs of these people.

The people of this province are becoming increasingly annoyed at the paternalistic attitude of government, and at the ever-growing interference of government in their daily private lives. They have resisted the latest encroachment by government by this lack of co-operation with hospital insurance, and are reiterating through their political associations their right in self-government and freedom of choice.

P.G.E. DEVELOPMENT

Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. Bullivant, who advocates scrapping the P.G.E. Railway, has obviously never travelled on that line nor has he consulted a map before writing about it.

Nowhere does this line run so close to the C.N. Railway that it could be "connected at low cost." The nearest points are Ashcroft on the C.N. and Clinton on the P.G.E. Between these points are twenty or twenty-five miles of hard country to put a connecting line through.

Now that the C.P. Railway has so many tunnels it has lost much of its spectacular value. The P.G.E., on the other hand has more spectacular scenery and far more varied than any other line on this continent, and I have travelled most of them.

Mr. Bullivant blandly writes off Lillooet, all the untouched mining country, cattle ranch country, and the rich valley of Pemberton Meadows, some of the most valuable assets in the province. Irresponsible government with its continually rising taxes, unnecessary by-laws and shiftless policies have scared settlers and farmers away, thus making the railway unprofitable.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

SO the old refrain, "Deutschland Über Alles," is once more to be restored to the bouncing boys of Germany. Ah well, it was bound to happen; no one need get hot under the collar.

You can't keep a nation's songs from a nation, just because you don't like the sound of them, and if this anthem is being sung under the breath anyway, as it is, it might as well be given full voice in the open.

There's another thing. "Deutschland Über Alles" might be a good antidote to Communism. The more the national spirit of Germany is roused the less likelihood of the Reich falling victim to Moscow wiles, a situation that wouldn't help the Western cause.

Mr. George Pearson's remarks about Premier Johnson were intriguing, to wit: "I've told him time and time again that he is too frank and outspoken to be a good politician."

A good politician, then, should be evasive and secretive, and not tell the public too much about his own business. I've suspected as much for a long time.

Imagine Vancouver scoffing at Caddy! Why, sea serpents are as old as time itself. Here's an affidavit printed in Lelaure Hour magazine (1933), sworn to by the captain and crew of the barque Pauline, of Liverpool. In the South Atlantic, on July 8, 1875, they saw a whopper, viz:

"We observed three large sperm whales, and one of them was gripped round the body with two turns of what appeared to be a huge sea-serpent. The head and tail appeared to have a length beyond the coils of about 30 feet, and its girth eight or nine feet. The serpent whirled its victim round and round for about 15 minutes, and then suddenly dragged the whale to the bottom, head first."

Now the captain didn't follow the combatants right down to Davy Jones' locker, naturally, but a week later the serpent came up again and reared its head 60 feet out of the water!

It's no wonder that after pondering this and other serpents the magazine concluded, solemnly: "From the authorities and opinions cited it is evident that the time has passed when 'the great sea-serpent' can be treated merely as a matter of merriment. When so treated by newspaper writers and in light conversation, it is from sheer ignorance of what men of science have written."

After all, if a flying saucer why not a sea-serpent?

Who is this bagpiper from foreign parts who says British Columbia highland dancers show too much leg? A world's champion piper, they say—never heard of him. I'll warrant he's just giving out with too much wind. He never saw a Victoria lass, or lad either, doing the Fling—that's for sure. And anyway what could be prettier than a bonnie tartan-clad leg—you couldn't have too much of it, could you?

As a matter of fact if I were expressing an opinion I'd say maybe that some Victoria kiltier don't show enough leg—they wear their hose too close up to the knee!

It's a great pity those two young singing stars of tomorrow, Marguerite Gignac and Robert Savoie, didn't get the audience they undoubtedly deserved. If they had been announced as coming from Milan, or Timbuktu, or some other non-Canadian place I daresay the Vic High auditorium would have been jammed to the doors.

The inclusion of John Dunbar as a guest artist for one or two numbers might have swelled local interest, since he was the runner-up star of tomorrow. But probably the chief reason for the poor audience was the locale. There is an implied second-rate quality about events staged in a small auditorium rather than in the Royal Theatre. The promoters may thus be as much to blame as the people who stayed away.

Reports From Ottawa

FEDERAL Liberals have refused a judgeship—for Ontario Liberal leader Walter Thomson, thereby disappointing what appears to be a sizeable number of Ontario Liberals.

Friends within the Liberals' inner circle in Ontario report a strong desire within the provincial organization, and particularly among the candidates whom Thomson led to defeat last fall, to jettison their unsuccessful leader. But they want to do it adroitly, without a squabble which might split and weaken the party.

An easy way out of the difficulty would be for Ottawa to give the beaten leader a judgeship or Senate appointment. Immigration Minister Walter Harris, whom many Ontario Liberals would like as their next leader, is reported to have urged his colleagues in the federal cabinet to do something for Thomson.

Trade Minister Howe and others are reliably reported to have opposed the suggestion, with the result that the idea has been shelved. The Progressive Conservatives criticized the government severely last year for having awarded more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of legal work to Thomson. Howe and others fear that if they now made Thomson a judge, they'd be giving the Tories ammunition to use against them in the federal election expected next year. And presumably the same argument holds for a Senate appointment.

But if the anti-Thomson Grits can't oust him the easy way, they'll try it the hard way. They'll start the ball rolling at the Ontario Liberal Association annual meeting at Toronto May 30.

According to Liberal sources here who keep close tabs on developments in the provincial field, Thomson will fight the ouster movement. These sources don't expect him to admit responsibility for the 1951 election debacle, but instead to try to lay the blame on the doorstep of the association on the grounds of failure to give him proper support in the election campaign.

Making this situation even stickier is the fact that Thomson and the Liberal Association president, Norman L. Matthews, waste little love on one another.

According to Grits who know him well, Thomson wants to keep the leadership mainly because he hopes to vindicate himself. He doesn't need the job, but he won't be fired if he can help it.

AS part of the Communists' propaganda campaign accusing the United Nations of waging germ warfare in Korea, the Canadian Tribune is using some words I allegedly wrote. The Tribune's target is Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the defense research board, and through him our government and our democracy.

Nearly three years ago the Montreal Standard published an article of mine on Dr. Solandt and his work. The first paragraph stated that Solandt "knows more about ways of killing people than anybody else in Canada and he says that the future of death on a mass scale is very bright."

Thus a headline in the Communist weekly of April 28: "Future of mass death bright"—Dr. Solandt!"

But Solandt didn't say that, and I didn't write that. Those words were written by an assistant editor, long since departed from The Standard, who thought my first paragraph needed to be "sharpened up."

"Sharpening up a lead" is a common newspaper practice, and often justifiable. But it wasn't justified in this case, and unfortunately it has provided the Communies with another alleged quotation to use in their efforts to mislead the Canadian people.

Parliament and Divorce

(From The Toronto Telegram)

MUCH of the time that Parliament allots to the consideration of private bills is now taken up in the consideration of applications for divorce originating in the provinces of Quebec and Newfoundland, where there are no divorce courts. The present procedure means that the valuable time of Parliament is being devoted to matters affecting a few individuals while legislation of a more general character is side-tracked.

Stanley Knowles, M.P., was on good ground in contending that inasmuch as Quebec refuses to set up divorce courts within its borders, Parliament ought to designate the exchequer court as a tribunal to handle these cases. The exchequer court is a federal court sitting in Ottawa. If necessary to dispose of the divorce applications its membership could be enlarged.

It is difficult to follow the reasoning of Prime Minister St. Laurent that by transferring these cases to the exchequer, Parliament would be establishing divorce as a legal institution. As things stand at present in every divorce bill which Parliament passes the legislators declare and recognize the principle of divorce.

There would be dual advantages to handing the divorce applications to the exchequer court. Not only would it relieve Parliament of a function which wastes its time and is repugnant to many of the members, but it would permit each case to be dealt with in accordance with the rules of evidence. The decisions of the judges would be made on the basis of testimony. Not one member of Parliament in a hundred is conversant with the facts of a divorce bill when it comes up in the House and Senate.

It is regrettable that the Commons has defeated Mr. Knowles' bill to transfer divorce work to the exchequer court.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Questioned yesterday, Misinformation Minister Bafflegab hotly denied that the upcoming election had any bearing on talk in provincial cabinet circles of a five-day week for civil servants.

Inventing the airplane may have been a mistake, as some say. But even farther back was that questionable device, the wheel, which gave us hot rods, roulette, and the lawnmower.

If a rocket trip to Mars fails to arouse anything in you, there's this added inducement: you can't get back.

The insurance agent called on Mr. Jones shortly after the latter's marriage, congratulated him, and then set about the business at hand. "Mr. Jones, now that you have a wife," the agent purred, "I suppose you'll want to take out some additional insurance." "Don't need no more," Jones replied. "She's not that dangerous."

ARMY STYLE

A group of paratrooper recruits were receiving their final instructions before going up.

"Now remember," explained the instructor, "when your turn comes, jump through the hole, count 10, then pull the rip cord. If your chute doesn't open, count 10 again and pull the cord again. When you reach land you'll find motorcycles, Bren guns and other equipment waiting."

Up they went. When No. 5's turn came he dived through the hole, counted 10, pulled the cord, nothing happened. He pulled the cord again. Still nothing happened. "Just like the army," he muttered. "And when I get down I bet there won't be any motorcycles waiting, either."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE thing that makes a summer cottage so bewitching is this: at the cottage, each morning is a new day. Whereas, in the city, each day is only a part of yesterday and of tomorrow.

In cities, the days are hooked up like a freight train. No day is really new. Days of yesterday drag on into today. And before today is done, you are already debilitated with part of tomorrow.

But up at the summer cabin, a day is a round and complete entity, with a beginning and an end. It can be folded up and tucked away in memory like a love letter. It can be put on the shelf like a good book read.

Unlike the work you do in the city, work at the summer cottage does not fasten itself like a ball and chain to your ankle. You may, indeed, be chivvied by your wife or your conscience, into doing a job of painting of the veranda. You might undertake to get up the ladder and put some new shingles in the roof. A wharf may require new logs in its crib work or a fresh plank or so on its top. But none of these activities spoils in the slightest degree that sense of singleness or completeness of the day. For the paint job may be one you started last summer. And the work on the wharf, you know full well, even as you start it, may not be finished until next summer. Certainly, no paint job you started yesterday has to be continued today or even tomorrow.

In fact, so separate and distinct is each day, that today you might decide to start the wharf job, rather than continue the paint job.

As a matter of principle, so precious is this individuality of each day at the summer cabin, that we should make it a point never to let that dreadful continuity take possession of us, that dread continuity which makes a freight train of our daily lives here in town.

After Abadan

By SYLVIA SHORT, From London

SINCE the loss of its refinery in Abadan, the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has been stepping up work on its new project in southeastern England. On a remote, marshy spur of land known as the Isle of Grain, one of the biggest refineries in Britain is being built at an approximate cost of $120,000,000.

The refinery will begin to pay off early in July, when the company expects to start processing crude oil at half its total capacity. When the plant is working at full capacity, some time in September, 4,000,000 tons per annum of Middle East crude oil will be processed, and the principal products will include an annual output of 965,000 tons of gasoline, 110,000 tons of kerosene and 1,862,000 tons of fuel oils. A plant for the recovery of sulphur from the gases is under consideration.

Nearly 5,000 men are employed in building this refinery, which is expected to be completed some time in 1953. These men work around a nucleus of nearly 50 American engineers; more than half of whom work for E. R. Dager & Sons, a leading United States company of construction engineers, under contract to the Anglo-Iranian firm for the erection of the refinery plant.

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company is recruiting men to give them an intensive induction course to enable them to work as process operators when the crude oil begins to flow in three months. It is expected that when the refinery is finished, a permanent staff of about 1,500 will be needed for operating purposes.

The recently initiated rearmament program here has increased the difficulties in obtaining speedy delivery of plant equipment, and generally mitigated against very rapid construction, but gradually the face of this little-known area, which for centuries has supported only scattered farming communities, is changing. Local people generally have welcomed the refinery, which will bring many otherwise unobtainable amenities in its wake, and will provide much employment.

When the refinery is completed, the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company will be the biggest oil-processing authority in Great Britain, as it already owns enormous plants in Scotland and Wales.

The company has completed plans for the construction of a new refinery near Freemantle, in Australia, and is considering the erection of another in Aden.

The output of these new refineries will not cover the loss of the Abadan plant, which produced 25,000,000 tons a year, but it will go a long way toward it. "We are not out of work yet," said an Anglo-Iranian official, with a satisfied grin.

With the Classics

Before Action

I sit beside the brazier's glow,
And drowsing in the heat,
I dream of daffodils that blow
And lambs that frisk and bleat—
Black lambs that frolic in the snow
Among the daffodils,
In a far orchard that I know
Beneath the Malvern hills.

Next year the daffodils will blow
And lambs will frisk and bleat;
But I'll not feel the brazier's glow,
Nor any cold or heat.

Trio Ignores Fire Danger To End Mass

MADISON, N.J., May 7 (BUP)—Under church law, a Catholic priest must complete a Mass once he starts it.

Father Stephen Patch obeyed the law today... he finished the Mass in a raging fire.

The fire broke out in the steeple of Saint Vincent's Church in Madison 20 minutes after service started.

More than 200 school children and scores of adults hurried out to sound a general alarm.

The Mass continued... the priest and two 12-year-old altar boys remaining behind. Then the 200-pound chandelier behind the altar began to sway. It fell... showering the priest and the boys with broken glass. Burning embers fell around them, but they stayed in their places.

Finally the Mass ended. The three walked calmly out of the church.

A few moments later, the steeple crashed down upon the altar and buried it in rubble.

M. R. Smith's Biscuit Factory Was Dallas Road Landmark

BY MRS. JEAN STUART CLARK

Fort Street. His son Garry was Dallas Road watching the ships and candy maker. He manufactured come and go as they have done and sold excellent chocolates and for many, many years.

There have been many changes along the Dallas Road waterfront in the past 60 years. One of the missing landmarks is M. R. Smith's biscuit factory which being destroyed by fire about 1908.

As far as I can remember it was a four-story frame building on Niagara Street near Dallas Road.

Soda crackers, "Boston Pilot" and "Pilot Bread" (or hard tack) was turned out in large quantities and a big business was done on the whole B.C. Coast supplying survey camps, road camps, ships, fishermen, prospectors and settlers with these biscuits. That is where the 10-pound boxes were sent, with the smaller boxes, mostly wooden, but some tin, for city trade.

Until a new home or camp got their stove or fireplace set up to cook bannocks or flapjacks, reliance was placed on the "Boston Pilot" and "hard tack."

They were a stand-by for us in our younger days when stores were two days' journey away. Trade was extra brisk when the Klondike rush was on—in 1898 and 1899—Time was too precious even to cook flapjacks on the trail or at the diggings.

Ask any old-timer if he remembers M. R. Smith's products and he'll tell you of their wonderful flavor.

One I was speaking to recently was comparing them with the "small, thin, tasteless, brittle squares they call crackers nowadays. M. R. Smith's biscuits had real flavor and body. With them were available when one gets a hankering for them."

Wonder if it was the material or the method of baking them that made them taste so good. In the early days of the Hudson's Bay Co. M. R. Smith baked for them, then had a store on

Disciplined Umpire In New Job

CHICAGO, May 7 (AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League today hired Douglas W. (Scotty) Robb, who quit his National League umpiring job two days ago after being disciplined and fined by the senior circuit's boss, Warren Giles.

The direct switch of leagues by an umpire under such circumstances is unprecedented in the majors.

In taking the action, Harridge praised Robb as "the kind of gentleman we like to have on our staff."

Giles, at his headquarters in Cincinnati, said:

"I am very glad Robb has found employment. He could have continued in our league. He is a good umpire, but under the circumstances he probably will be happier in the American League. I wish him every success."

New Grass Too Tough For Divots

NEW YORK (BUP)—The days of "divot digging" may be over for Mr. Average Golfer.

A scientist, Dr. Fred Grau of Beltsville, Maryland, has developed a "divotless" grass so tough it's almost impossible to send a clod of sod spinning into the air.

Says Dr. Grau: "Even if a golfer does manage to cut a piece of the fairway, he can walk right on and forget about replacing the turf. The new combination turf grows better if the divot isn't replaced."

Dr. Grau said tests at Beltsville have been successful but warns it may be five years before the new grass is in general use.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Judging from pre-season lineups only, it should be quite a battle between New Westminster Salmonakas, Vancouver and Victoria Shamrocks for first place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League this year with a reportedly-improved Nanaimo club having an excellent chance of beating out P.N.E. Indians for the fourth play-off spot.

Shamrocks wound up on top in 1951 and breezed through to the play-off final before the loss of Whitney Severson, combined with the superior experience of Vancouver Combines, knocked them off the Mann Cup trail. They were generally awarded the favorite's role this season and did nothing to dispel the belief Tuesday, but it is not going to be easy to repeat. The Salmonakas, rank disappointments last year as the Combines, again have a powerful "paper" lineup and this time it might play up to its potentialities. Vancouver, under new and undisputed sponsorship, cannot be judged by that Tuesday trouncing. The Combines or Piseners, or whatever they may end up being called, have a lot of proven talent that only needs conditioning to be tough. They'll figure.

The question of the moment, then, is whether or not this third edition of the Shamrocks is better than the 1951 club. It has added Jackie Northup, the league's most valuable last season, and it has an added year of experience. On the other hand, it has lost Red McMillan, the added year may tell on a few key veterans, and there is uncertainty yet as to whether or not goalie Bill Andrews will be adequately replaced. Is there a credit balance here?

Off Tuesday's game—and discounting the fact that the Shamrocks, as usual, started in greatly superior condition—there is. The Shamrocks appear to have the poise and polish that was lacking in the play-off, final and to have the balance so assiduously sought by coach Arnie Ferguson. There is speed, scoring punch and defensive steadiness and, best of all perhaps, the club still has that great urge to win and almost fanatical support from ever-increasing numbers of rabid fans to fan it.

Offensively, no club is likely to match in one line the scoring activities of the Larry Booth-Severson-Archie Browning unit. And there was no noticeable lessening of effectiveness when Northup, Norm Baker and Bob Monaghan took the floor. Ferguson and Duff McGehee, a couple of cagey veterans, were standouts on a sturdy defense Tuesday and in Darrell Popham and Tom Druce, rugged, willing and able, the club has ideal rovers to link up the attack and the defense.

Still a question spot and probably the key to the situation is goal. Jim Hetherington could neither be faulted or fully approved off his first game, but he at least indicated strongly that he has a chance to fill the bill. Obviously nervous in the first half Tuesday, he showed a tendency to move too much but he settled down in the later stages. One doesn't exactly have to be an optimist to state the overall picture is bright.

Random Harvest

The Tyees had a chance to purchase Bob Snyder and would have loved to have had the star right-hander, but the asking price of $3,000 was a bit out of reach for a financially-embarrassed club.

The Tyees also have a chance to pick up Andy Skurski, veteran outfielder recently with Hollywood, but the W.I.L. rule which limits clubs to a maximum of nine veterans prevents any action here. The Tyees have 10 now and there is a good chance that a right-hander, probably Bob Drilling, will be forthcoming from Portland.

There is still official opposition to the new sponsors of the Vancouver entry in the Inter-City Lacrosse League. It will be thrashed out at a meeting tonight.

Analogies to Dr. Allan McGill, erroneously listed as Gill in Wednesday's account of the lacrosse opener. Archie Wilson, who led the W.I.L. in hitting when he was with Victoria, made 11 hits, including two triples and three doubles. In his first four games for Washington, it would serve the Yankees right if he developed into a star. Manager Casey Stengel gave him little chance this season although his club certainly needed punch while the more-publicized Bob Cerv, Mickey Mantle and Jackie Jensen were used despite failures at the plate.

Sal Maglie, star of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, gave up only 15 hits in his first four games, all of them complete. He gave up only nine in his first 27 innings. There is nothing wrong with the Tyees that a little better pitching and a defensive tightening won't cure. And it shouldn't be forgotten, either, that the Capilano look like the class of the W.I.L. this season.

The average salary in the American League in 1950 was $11,000 and it was $10,000 in the National League. Not bad for seven months. Too bad baseball's reserve clause is making "slaves" of the players. Lacrosse officials should start clamping down on wild stick-swinging at once. The opener Tuesday was almost brutal at times as Vancouver tried to make up for lack of condition and Shamrocks' superior speed with stickwork.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: B.C. Forest Products in tonight's softball and the Tyees. Batting average to date: At bat 258, hits 161, percentage .624.

Tyees Lose Third Straight; Spokane Takes W.I.L. Lead

Victoria Tyees lost their W.I.L. lead at Vancouver last night as the Capilano took a 3-1 lead in the four-game series by scoring a 7-2 victory.

The loss coupled with Spokane Indians' 5-4 triumph over the Lewiston Broncos, dropped the Tyees a full game behind the defending league champions and left them only a half game ahead of the Caps.

Final game of the series is billed tonight with Cal McVain, the probable Victoria pitcher and Van Fletcher his likely opponent. The Tyees then move to Wenatchee for four games and to Tri-City for three before returning home a week from Friday to face the Caps in the first three games of a 10-game home stand.

Good Vancouver pitching stopped the Tyees for the third straight game last night. Ed Locke, colored right-hander, gave up only four singles as the Tyees failed again to match the Caps' pitching and bobbled four times in a shaky display. Fletcher stopped the Islanders in a relief role Monday and Bud Guldberg was tough in the trenches Tuesday in the second game.

It was small consolation but the Tyees were right in the battle again until the late innings for the third straight time.

Monday in 13 innings, continuing the Tyees' losing streak. They set back and were as close as 4-2 after seven innings last night.

However, Locke never appeared in danger of losing. Only manager Cee Garriott, who picked up three singles and reached base on an error in a fourth trip, caused him any trouble. Pitcher Jim Probst got the other Victoria hit.

Locke also starred at the plate. The lanky Kansas City Negro league pitcher in the fourth inning to give his club a 3-2 lead and scored Vancouver's first run in the third after getting on with the first of two singles.

Probst, who started the season with a shutout, failed for the third time to complete a starting assignment. He went out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, trailing 4-2. The Caps immediately pounced on the overworked George Randolph for three runs to put it out of reach. It was Randolph's third relief appearance in three nights and his eighth of the season. The Tyees have only played 14 games.

Victoria's defensive play, which is probably contributing heavily to the Tyees' pitching troubles, was again shoddy. The four errors—two by Luther Grafton and one each by Grady Gladstone and Mike Starlin—made in time for the three Vancouver games, 17 for the last six games and 33 for the season.

Three runs in the last two innings won it for Spokane at Lewiston. The Indians scored twice in the eighth when two walks and a wild pitch helped out to take a 4-3 lead and scored a single run in the ninth after the Broncos had tied it up. Frank Chase, who received credit for the win after relieving John Marshall in the eighth, batted in the winning run with a single.

The N.B.A. feels that these inter-class tensions between champions are not in order until the champions concerned have defeated the logical contenders in their own divisions, the association said in a statement.

The N.B.A. said Robinson Bears, who have now lost six such middleweight bouts as Randy Turpin of England, Gene Harrison of New York and Charles Homer of France. It also extended that Archie Moore of St. Louis, Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, and Harry Matthews of Seattle deserved a shot at Max Baer's crown.

Frank DiStasio, former Coast League strikeout king, pitched scoreless ball after the first inning and struck out nine Braves as Wenatchee Chiefs trimmed Tri-City, 10-2, at Wenatchee. Bud Hejmaa led the winner's 13th spurt with a double and four singles.

Winnipeg, May 7 (CP)—Montreal walked off with two places on Canada's four-member Olympic wrestling team today as a special committee named wrestlers from several champions declared here yesterday at the trials.

Named were: Adrien Poliquin, bantamweight, Montreal; Armand Bernard, featherweight, Montreal; Nick Mohammed, welterweight, Vancouver, and Bob Steele, light heavyweight, Guelph, Ont.

Other champions declared were: lightweight—Landy Primo, Toronto; middleweight—Gordon Nelson, Winnipeg; heavyweight—Pete Piet, Winnipeg.

Nanaimo's second game will be against Shamrocks at Victoria next Wednesday, when the defending league champions make their 1952 debut before their hometown fans.

Given nothing better than a chance to beat out P.N.E. Indians for the fourth play-off spot in pre-season talk, Nanaimo Native Sons start their second season in Inter-City Lacrosse League at Nanaimo Saturday brimming with confidence that they are going to upset a few apple carts before the 1952 season is over.

Team officials are unanimous in their belief that the Sons will be the 1952 surprise despite the additions to the team which wound up last season with only four wins in 32 games and 496 goals against in spite of the offensive efforts of goalie Fred Fulla.

Most confident of all is Harry Campbell, the former New Westminster, Salmonby, who has taken over the coaching reins. He reports his club has been working out extremely well; that it is already in first-class condition and that team spirit is excellent. Campbell has been betting so many milk shakes on his club that it will pay him to go into the ice cream business if Sons fail to improve greatly over last season.

Campbell freely predicts a victory Saturday night despite the fact that his opposition will be the powerful New Westminster Salmonakas, generally rated one-two in pre-season forecasting, who found the up-Islanders rather easy pickings last season.

Only imports are Red Nelson, hard-playing youngster from Armstrong, and "Red" Hefferman, clever little centre who played junior lacrosse in Peterborough last year. Nelson will play on one defense combination with Earl Bennie, while Hefferman will centre a "pony" line with Fottal Potts and Patty Patterson as his forwards.

The other defense duo in front of Fred Fulla is Buck Bennie and Reg. Dorman. Norm Fulla, centres the other attacking unit with two Indians, the hard-hitting Bill Seward and Don White, as his forwards. Gordie Nickle is the rover for this line while Spud Morelli is rover for Hefferman's

BOB SNYDER

W.I.L. pennant stock of Vancouver Capilano jumped yesterday with announcement that star right-hander of last season's club would rejoin club. Snyder pitched 304 innings in 37 games in 1951 and led league in complete games with 31 and in victories with 27. He lost only seven and saved several in relief roles. His acquisition—establishes Vancouver club as short-handed favorite for 1952 championship. He was drafted by Memphis but was unable to get started this season and was reclaimed by Caps.

Inter-Class Bouts Hit By N.B.A.

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Middleweight champion Ray Robinson and light heavyweight king Joey Maxim finally signed official contracts today for their June 23 title bout in Yankee Stadium and immediately drew a reprimand from the National Boxing Association.

The N.B.A. feels that these inter-class tensions between champions are not in order until the champions concerned have defeated the logical contenders in their own divisions, the association said in a statement.

The N.B.A. said Robinson Bears, who have now lost six such middleweight bouts as Randy Turpin of England, Gene Harrison of New York and Charles Homer of France. It also extended that Archie Moore of St. Louis, Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, and Harry Matthews of Seattle deserved a shot at Max Baer's crown.

First Victory For Tillieums; Edge Millmen

Tillieums scored their first win in the Senior "B" Men's Softball League by edging B.C. Forest Products, 3-2, at Central Park last night. The Clubmen battled to a 12-12 draw in their opening game with Timkeners.

Army climbed into first place in the loop Tuesday by trouncing Esquimalt Merchants, 17-2. It was the Soldiers' second straight win.

Joe Clarkson put Tillieums into the lead in the fourth inning when he singled in two runs. Bill Merik scored what proved to be the winner in the eighth on a wild pitch.

Davey in Line For Title Bout; Gets Easy Win

CHICAGO, May 7 (AP)—Undeclared Chuck Davey, scoring four spectacular knockdowns, tonight easily defeated Chico Velazquez with barpooning lefts to the face and stomach in their 10-round welterweight battle in Chicago Stadium.

The decision of the two judges and referee Frank Sikora was unanimous.

Making an astonishing whirlwind finish, Velazquez was credited with winning only the 10th round. The second and the ninth were even.

Davey, fancy boxing southpaw, outboxed and outmaneuvered the New York University freshman by his savage two-fisted attack to the head and body.

The victory moved Davey, unbeaten in 33 bouts, into contention as the No. 1 challenger of Cuban Kid Gavilan's welterweight championship.

Davey, holder of a master's degree from Michigan State College, scored two knockdowns in the first round, one in the sixth, and another in the seventh.

There must be some form of college athletic control in this country that will check up and stop such practices as Judge Saul Streit charges against Kentucky University.

Everyone knew that a great many colleges had been far below a decent standard of conduct. Several reputable football coaches have told me of certain stars paid from $5,000 to $6,000 to enter certain universities, where they received plenty on the side.

However, from the charges Judge Streit made, and from his open condemnation of such actions, it does seem odd that a judge is needed to tell the truth. Have the colleges no athletic standards to guard?

It seems odd that this large body should apparently know nothing of Kentucky U.'s actions, or should have done nothing about them.

Everyone knows that Kentucky doesn't stand alone as the great and lonely sinner. There are dozens of others, many dozens, almost as bad, when it comes to out-and-out professional football and professional basketball, played as amateur games.

This will continue as long as proselytizing, scouting and athletic scholarships are given such a play.

Basketball, outside of its cheating department, has become more professional than big-league baseball. Well, about as much, anyway. Only in pro baseball managers don't give bonuses for good plays.

The N.C.A.A. or some other college body must find a way to stop this cheating that is taking place in college sport.

Wholesale dismissal of certain coaches will help, but the coaches are not the only ones to blame. They are directed by the wild-eyed alumni, and many students demanding victory at any price, no matter how dishonest the scheme may be.

Certainly, Rupp and his breed are through. Or Kentucky is through in college sport. What the colleges need is a commissioner by the name of Judge Saul Streit, and they shouldn't wait too long. It may be too late.

New Boy Manager

Lou Boudreau, the new Red Sox leader, was born back in 1917, 35 years ago, but he no longer is the boy manager. Boudreau won a Cleveland pennant in 1948, but he has grown up since that date. No man in baseball has turned in as fine a starting job as the ex-Cleveland leader.

Down in Florida, this last spring, the Red Sox looked to be hopeless. They had lost Bobby Doerr, an outstanding star. They were about to lose Ted Williams, one of the great hitters of the game. They were losing a .350 man—a home-run star—a leader at driving in runs.

Down south, in March, the Red Sox seemed to be on the earnest side, but also a trifle dejected, baring only Lou Boudreau. Boudreau went about his business cheerfully, and with confidence from day to day. He made no predictions. He simply worked over time. He began to inspire much more confidence in his depleted squad. He worked harder than ever on his pitchers.

When the Red Sox headed north, they read in many papers where they had been picked to finish fifth or sixth. For years they had been named to run 1-2. Usually number one, but not for 1952. It was all Indians or Yankees, or someone else.

In the face of this melancholy news, Boudreau opened the new campaign with a dash. He had his men ready to move, and ready to prove they were still ballplayers. The man from Illinois is a fine ballplayer and maybe an even better manager.

As an opening salute, no one so far has done a better job.

Society Steeplechase Set for 10th Running

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 7 (AP)—Highbrow hayburners put on the dog before the common people here next Saturday in a horse race unusual in American turf history.

It will be the 10th running of the Iroquois Memorial Steeplechase, in which horses with the haughty pedigrees compete mostly for glory and in the enjoyment and edification of a crowd annually numbering from 10,000 to 20,000, depending on the weather.

Unlike some other sporting events, where you're gouged for all the traffic will bear, this one is all for free.

Hot dogs and soft drinks are a dime apiece. Or you can bring a basket lunch and spread it on the emerald slopes of the Harpeth Hills surrounding the race course.

Betting being illegal in Tennessee, there is no pari-mutuel window. But a modest wager probably could be arranged without being collared by the cops.

The race is named for Iroquois, the Tennessee-bred horse which won the English Derby in 1881, the only American horse to win that event.

It is sponsored by the Volunteer State Horsemen's Association.

Nineteen horses thus far have been entered.

The Iroquois is run over a three-mile, 18-hedge course in Percy Warner Park, the city's huge playground which covers thousands of acres and offers a natural amphitheatre for the race.

Only amateurs compete, which may or may not account for the great number of spills. Last year there were five bad ones. A. D. Plamondon III of Chicago, whose back was broken in a fall, will be back this year on the same mount, Dr. John Youman's Storm Hour.

Cricket Opens On Saturday; Two Matches

The Victoria and District Cricket Association will open its 1952 season this weekend as all six teams get under way in search of the league championship and the new Colonist Cup.

Oak Bay, the defending champion, will play Five C's, the through champion and runner-up last season, in the feature match at Windsor Park, Saturday at 2.30.

Alcos will play the Cowichan Cricket Club in the other Saturday match at Duncan starting at the same time.

On Sunday at 2.30, Albions and University School Incogs will play at the Beacon Hill Park oval.

Oak Bay's 10-0 triumph over Esquimalt, the second straight loss for the Fernwood crew, while Mount View smashed out a 16-1 victory over Mount Douglas.

At Mount View, Allan Wilson spun a neat one-hitter as his mates clobbered Mount Douglas, pinning it at will.

Play in the junior league opened on Monday with Esquimalt squeezing out an 8-6 win over Mount Douglas and Victoria High edging Mount View, 10-9.

Bowlers Spoil Good Chance For Indian XI

LONDON, May 7 (Reuters)—The Indian touring team lost its first four wickets for 64 in the last 90 minutes of play today against Surrey at The Oval, after dismissing the home country for 219.

Surrey, batting first, had 199 on the board at the fifth wicket, but the next six men added only 20. Chiefly responsible was bowler Ramchand, who took five wickets for five runs in an inspired five overs.

The Indian openers tallied 24 before spinners Jim Laker and Tony Lock took over to dismiss four batsmen in 20 minutes.

Close of play scores in matches begun today:

Surrey, 219; India, 64 for four. Derbyshire, 218; Middlesex, 154 for three. Essex, 241; Cambridge, 173 for one. Yorkshire, 100 for eight. vs. Oxford University. Outsider Cops Trial Stakes; O.C. Hope Dim EASHER, Surrey, England, May 7 (CP)—Unheralded Danie Colt, with some unpromising past performances, today won the Sandown Park Trial Stakes and made Britain's Epsom Derby prospects look darker than ever.

A. J. D. McCalmont's horse, a 25-1 shot, easily beat Postman's Path and Hilltop in the 1 1/4-mile test over a muddy track. From the Derby point of view, the main significance was the defeat of the favored Frequency, one of the few remaining British-breds thought to have Derby credentials.

The Sandown Trial was originally scheduled to mark the second appearance this season of Indian Hemp, owned by publisher Max Bell of Calgary, but the colt was scratched because of track conditions. Indian Hemp, a Derby outsider, now will run in the Newmarket Stakes May 14.

Protective Rule Sometimes Works in Reverse

BY GALE TALBOT

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—The rules of baseball go to elaborate lengths to protect the rights of the individual player, to make certain that a talented youngster is given a fair chance to make good in the big leagues and cannot be kept indefinitely in the low-salary minors at the whim of some owner who doesn't like the way he parts his hair.

Perhaps the most important safeguard is the rule which says that a player who has been in the big show for three seasons may not be sent back to the minors until every one of 15 other major league clubs have said it doesn't want him even at the waiver price of $10,000.

That seems fair enough to all parties. Certainly it protects a player from petty treatment. Yet in certain cases the rule may work a severe hardship both on an aspiring athlete and on the club which owns him.

You may have noticed that Montia Kennedy, a southpaw who throws possibly the fastest ball in the game today, did a remarkable stint of relief pitching for New York Giants the other day. He held the hot Chicago Cubs to a single for 6-13 innings, retired 17 men in a row and was, in a word, sensational.

Those were the first balls the tail Virginian had thrown in anger for 23 days, since he blew a late-inning lead in an exhibition game against Cleveland at Evansville, Ind. The victory was the first he had scored for the National-League champions since last May 19, nearly a year ago. Yet he had been around all the time in between, eating his heart out either on the bench or in the bullpen.

Kennedy has been with the Giants since 1946 except for part of the 1948 season at Minneapolis. Working every minute of fourth day, he would be ready now.

Okay, why wasn't he sent out? "Not a chance of getting away,"

Every club in the league would try to grab him."

This spring, sore in spirit, Montia made life equally miserable for the Giant batters in practice at Phoenix. One day in particular he was, as they say, throwing aspirin tablets. The hitters really got no practice at all. They just stood well back from the plate and waved.

"Look at that boy throw!" exclaimed Tom Sheehan, the Giants' chief scout. "If only he could have been at Minneapolis last year."

Okay, why wasn't he sent out? "Not a chance of getting away,"

But in 1950, as Sal Maglie and Jim Hearn hit their stride, there was less work for Kennedy and his wildness increased on his rare appearances. Last year, locked in a tense pennant race, manager Leo Durocher could take no chances and gave up on ers. Every club in the league would try to grab him."

More than six miles above the earth, crack pilots of the RCAF fly with the speed of sound — aided by the very latest in scientific equipment for themselves and for the jets that they command.

More young men who have an aptitude for flying are needed now—to train as members of the Air Crew team. For those who have what it takes, the RCAF can offer a permanent career — an exciting job — with pension at a comparatively early age. If you are between 18 and 24, get complete information now!

A wonderful thing, these jets, son. I guess we'll all be travelling around in them soon!

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

The mechanics of golf, including the club, is basic knowledge and so I recommend this study the club shaft in today's picture. The hands are just slightly in front of the clubhead. Now if you'll take a look at your clubs, you will see that the shaft comes away from the clubhead at a slightly forward angle. This relationship is built into your club by the maker because tests have shown that that small difference is vitally important. It means that the face of the club contacts the ball with the left, the club was intended to provide. You can readily understand that if you use a straight-faced No. 1 wood, but tilt the handle back, you convert the No. 1 wood to a spoon so far as the loft of the club is concerned when it comes in contact with the ball and so to leave the loft of the club in correct relation to the ball the shaft is inserted in the head with a slightly forward angle. But since in the address position the clubhead is back of the ball, your hands are even with the ball due to this shaft adjustment.

Socred Leader Denies Name Misleads Public

VANCOUVER, May 7 (C.P.).—Lyle Wicks, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, said today charges that the B.C. league is "misleading" the public are "hair-splitting."

He was replying to a statement by J. V. MacDonald of the Social Credit Secretariat of Liverpool, Eng., that the league is "misleading" because it is not connected with the "Social Credit" movement established by Maj. C. H. Douglas.

"That doesn't mean anything," said Mr. Wicks.

"There is only one Social Credit movement in B.C. and that is ours."

He said there may be differences between the B.C. league and the "Douglasites," but it was only "hair-splitting."

City Allocates Nursing Home Part of Funds

Ald. Mrs. Margaret Christie will have to settle for half a loaf for the present.

The city has allocated $82,500 toward its share in the $450,000 addition to the Victoria Nursing Home. The sum is a little more than half the $150,000 needed. The balance of the $150,000 will be provided out of capital asset funds at a later date, according to a letter received by Ald. Christie.

Victoria's only woman alderman has waged a year-long battle for city support of the project. The remainder of the $450,000 will be provided by the two senior governments.

Little Danger Of Flooding On B.C. Rivers

There is little danger of flooding along B.C.'s major rivers if temperatures and precipitation remain normal, the provincial government's latest snow survey shows.

Heavy rain and high temperatures could bring high peak flows in the Fraser and other lower mainland streams.

In the interior and the north, the spring melt is well advanced. The snow pack is far below normal for this time of year.

Car Overturns On Highway

A car driven by Hubert C. Ellner, Goldstream Road, Langford, was damaged to the extent of $400 when it overturned on the Island Highway near 16-mile post early yesterday morning.

R.C.M.P. said Ellner suffered minor injuries.

I've Re-Discovered OLD DUTCH CLEANSER!

Mrs. E. A. Bishop

48 The Oaks, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"It's a joy to use Old Dutch again! It's so handy and fragrant...cuts grease from my pots and pans quick as a wink. Smooth Old Dutch is wonderful for the work and enamel since top too. It leaves them shining white and clean. Re-discovering Old Dutch is quite a revelation. I simply had to write and tell you how pleased I am with Old Dutch Cleanser."

Outcleans Them All!

Helps You Clean with

TWICE the SPEED and EASE

For the "shine-of-their-lives" use all-purpose Old Dutch to polish all your porcelain, pots and pans. Dissolves grease on contact, floats away dirt and grime with real "rinse-away" sudsing action—not wispy foam. Try snowy-white, fragrant, new-sudsing Old Dutch!

USED OLD DUTCH LATELY? IT'S WONDERFUL! TRY IT!

Spreading of Disease By Fowl Held Likely

Feeding habits of prairie fowl, both wild and domestic, make it possible to keep food and mouth disease spread in a wide area, it was pointed out by a veterinarian at the B.C. Poultry Show today. The speaker, Dr. H. H. Hume, said that the disease is spread by the fowl's droppings, which are often found in the same place as the food.

Dr. Hume was speaking on a report on the spread of disease by fowl, which was given by the B.C. Poultry Association at the B.C. Poultry Show today.

He said that wild fowl, such as geese, ducks and swans, are often found in the same place as the food, and that they often feed on the same food as the domestic fowl.

Sidney Dock Rebuilding To Start Soon

Rebuilding of the dock at Sidney is expected to get under way soon.

The new dock, which is being built by the B.C. Ferry Company, will be a modern structure of steel and concrete.

The dock is being built on the site of the old dock, which was destroyed by fire in 1948.

The new dock will be 100 feet long and 20 feet wide, and will have a depth of 10 feet.

The dock will be built by the B.C. Ferry Company, which is a subsidiary of the B.C. Ferry Corporation.

Navy Wives Hitch-Hike To Halifax

HALIFAX, May 7 (CP).—Pat Booth and Arline Carveth of Victoria, wanted to join their navy husbands here so they hitchhiked across the country.

The 1,000-mile trip took them 11 days and cost about $18, $7 of which Pat lost en route.

"We wanted to join our husbands in Halifax," they said today, "and hitchhiking was the only way we could manage the trip."

Pat Booth and Arline Carveth are both in the navy. Pat is a cook and Arline is a stewardess.

They left Victoria on May 1 and arrived in Halifax on May 11. They were met by their husbands and taken to their homes.

Hospital Patient Suggests Campaign To Subsidize Korean Entertainment

A patient in the Victoria General Hospital has suggested a campaign to subsidize Korean entertainment. The patient, who is recovering from a recent operation, has expressed a strong interest in Korean music and dance. He has suggested that the hospital should organize a series of performances by Korean artists, which would not only provide entertainment for the patients but also help to raise funds for the Korean War effort.

The three-club bid was an Aving Bid as played in Sweden. Here in America few players remember Culbertson's invention of this interrogatory bid, but in Europe it is still widely played. Three clubs asked South whether he had first or second round control of that suit; without it he was compelled to rebid his suit. Four diamonds was also asking, since the spade suit was confirmed by North's first bid. South's four-notrump answer showed ace of diamonds and another ace, or king or singleton in diamonds and two aces. North, worried about the possibility South held the ace of hearts, repeated the asking bid and got the information that South had the ace of diamonds and the ace of spades.

The result of this odd bidding was that South never had a chance to show his five-card heart suit. If West had made his normal lead of that suit, declarer could have made his contract by discarding a club and letting the lead run to East's ace. Later, he would discard another club on the heart king and, by finessing the jack through West's queen, discard a third club on the heart ten. Thus he would lose only a single heart trick and make the slam.

The asking bids in this hand defeated their own purpose, however. West decided since he had shown nothing in clubs—the first suit he was asked about—that would be his best lead. South put dummy's ten on the club opening and lost to East's queen. East returned a trump, and that killed the cross-ruff. South took another club finesse as his only hope of making the slam and down he went.

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

MR. STUBTAIL'S TOOTHACHE

Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow one morning, wondering where he might go to have an adventure. All of a sudden there was a knock on the back kitchen door. Uncle Wiggily was sitting in the living room, near the front door. But the rabbit gentleman had such long, sharp ears that he easily heard the knocking at the back kitchen door.

"Are you there, Nurse Jane?" called Mr. Longears to the muskrat lady bungalow keeper. "Are you there? Someone is knocking on the door!"

"Yes, Mr. Longears, I hear them," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I am just waiting to go down after washing the dishes information that South had the ace of diamonds and the ace of spades."

"It is any of those new, polite foxes," said Uncle Wiggily. "Please, tell them to go away and not bother me."

"I shall tell them," promised Nurse Jane. "But I do not believe it is any of the foxes. I think they are still in their den putting cold water on their smarting tongues."

"Oh, yes! Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "No," he said quickly. "I should not laugh because the foxes got hot burning tongues from eating the red hot radishes that came out of my garden. So I will take back three 'Ha-Ha-Ha' laughs I just made and I will say that I am sorry for the foxes, even though they tried to catch me and also catch Jangle and Jangle. Yes, I am sorry."

"You needn't feel sorry about the foxes now, Mr. Longears," called Nurse Jane from the kitchen. "It was none of the foxes who knocked on the door."

"Who knocked?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"It is Mrs. Stubtail," replied Nurse Jane.

"Mrs. Stubtail?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, sort of asking a question. Then he went on: "What does Mrs. Stubtail want, if you please, Nurse Jane? Has she come to tell me where I may find an adventure?"

The rabbit gentleman, sitting in his easy chair of the hollow stump bungalow living room, heard Mrs. Stubtail and Nurse Jane talking in the kitchen. Then Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy came into the living room and said:

"Mrs. Stubtail didn't call, Uncle Wiggily, to tell you where you might find an adventure. She came to say that her husband, Mr. Stubtail, has a very painful toothache and she wants to know if we have anything to make the ache stop."

"So Stubtail has the toothache, has he?" asked Mr. Longears. "Well, why doesn't he go to Dr. Possum the dentist and have him pull the aching tooth?"

"I don't know the answer to that question," said Nurse Jane. "Perhaps you had better talk to Mrs. Stubtail yourself."

"I will," said Uncle Wiggily, hopping out to the kitchen. "Good morning, Mrs. Stubtail," greeted Uncle Wiggily, politely. "I am sorry to hear about Stubtail's toothache. Why doesn't he go to the dentist?"

"That's just what I asked him," said the lady bear. "I told Stubtail he was quick to make appointments for Needle and Beekle to go to the dentist when their teeth ached. But he isn't so ready to go when it is his turn. He said it makes him nervous to go to the dentist. He just wants something hot to put on his tooth to stop the ache!"

"Something hot, eh?" said Mr. Longears. "I might take him some of my red radishes. But to get the hottest from them he would have to chew the radishes and that might make his toothache worse. I will look in the medicine cabinet of the bathroom. Mrs. Stubtail, I will hop over myself and bring Stubtail something for his sore tooth."

"Oh, thank you, Uncle Wiggily," said the lady bear in her most pleasant voice. "Then I will go on to the store. Would you mind telephoning Stubtail to say that you are coming over to stop his toothache?"

"I'll tell him," promised Uncle Wiggily. He called Mr. Stubtail on the telephone and promised to come over right away with hot stuff for the aching tooth. A little later Uncle Wiggily was on his way. He hopped through his garden and there he saw something that made him suddenly stop.

"I will tell you more about this tomorrow if the can opener will please put some jelly beans in the rice pudding instead of raisins to make a jolly surprise for the toothbrush."

Ministry of Co-operatives Promised by Snowsell

A ministry for co-operatives will be established by the C.C.F. party if it becomes the government in the province, Frank Snowsell stated last night.

The C.C.F. believes in helping people run their own business, and also believes in diversified control for both producer and consumer, he said.

Mr. Snowsell, C.C.F. candidate in Saanich, addressed a meeting at Keating.

He noted also that the party will work with co-operatives to have food produced and distributed efficiently. Under an agriculture program, farmers will be greatly helped, he said.

GUARANTEE SECURITY

Farmers would be guaranteed security of their possessions in cases beyond their control. Farmers are entitled to the same living standards as people in cities, the speaker said.

Hospital Insurance Service would be examined in regard to a recommendation from the firm of Stevens & Kellogg, which reported for the legislative hospital insurance inquiry committee, he said.

The firm recommended an administration system similar to that in Saskatchewan, with a resultant staff reduction of about 200 persons, Mr. Snowsell said.

CAR INSURANCE

He also advocated car insurance at cost similar to that in Saskatchewan.

Supporting the candidate was Mrs. Percy Rayment, who outlined C.C.F. policies regarding social services.

A film on automobile insurance, produced by Saskatchewan Film Board, was shown.

Mr. Snowsell's next meeting is Friday evening at 8 p.m. in Brentwood Women's Institute Hall.

Clark Arrives At New Post

TOKYO, May 7 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark arrived in Tokyo this afternoon to take over command of United Nations forces in the Far East. He said he "would do everything in my power to bring about an honorable armistice."

Gen. Clark was met at the Haneda airport by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the man he succeeds.

Minister Upheld in Refusal To Show Report on Dismissal

OTTAWA, May 7 (CP)—The Commons by a vote of 147 to 52 today defeated a Progressive Conservative motion for production of documents in the case of F. D. Miller of Edmonton, dismissed from the R.C.M.P. for alleged misconduct.

The documents, including a copy of evidence taken in the investigation of the case, were requested by John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre), supported by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader.

Justice Minister Garson said production of the documents was not in the interests of the force, where strict discipline was accepted by recruits, including the

Large Salt Intake Suspected Possible Cause of Deafness

A theory that too much salt in the diet may lead to deafness is being explored.

Dr. Norman Cook, Victoria, outlined this thesis in a paper delivered recently to the Pacific Coast Oto-Ophthalmological Society meeting in Salt Lake City.

Dr. Cook said that questioning of a number of his patients suffering from "noise-induced" deafness, led him to further research, which established that many of them used an unusually heavy amount of salt in their daily food.

The salt, in turn, affected fluid in the inner ear, he thought.

Dr. Cook's theory will be investigated further by himself and other doctors.

Farm Testing Soil Treatment With Krilium

Krilium, so-called "wonder chemical" for soil conditioning, is being tested at Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton.

The material, which is not yet available to the public, is being tested at 2,000 pounds an acre, compared to a standard growers' treatment of 10 tons of manure an acre.

Main tests will be to determine Krilium's effect on the yield of indicator crops such as carrots, corn, spring oats, winter wheat, bulbs and other crops, and also its effect on the physical properties of the soil.

Manufacturers of the chemical claim starting results in enriching soil with Krilium. A $50,000 plant is being built in Texas to manufacture it.

The meeting was reminded of the convention of Island Chambers to be held at Port Alberni on June 24 and 25. George Moody, Percy Thorp, Sqdn. Ldr. J. H. McLoughlin and secretary M. O. Goodmans were appointed as authorized delegates.
